

Nursing home costs can quickly drain the savings that you or your loved one has worked so hard for over the years to accumulate. We will work with you and your family to develop a plan that seeks to maximize government benefits and protect savings to the fullest extent possible. Government programs that assist with payment of nursing home costs are ever-changing and budget cuts in the future may force the elimination of some services that these programs currently provide. By planning to preserve a portion of your savings, funds could be set aside to pay for the services and needs of the nursing home resident that are not covered by government benefits now or in the future in order to enhance the resident's quality of life.
